

July 18, 2007

NEW TECHNOLOGY: Next Generation Broadband's Install System

Next Generation Broadband has introduced its Bundled Install System, a technology that automates the service activation process and customer management tasks involved in adding both voice and high speed data customers at the same time. The company develops device control software that operates on a centralized network basis, allowing cable operators to automate management of individual IP devices and subscribers.